HANS LEE, MD

Johns Hopkins University

I am an Associate Professor of Medicine at Johns Hopkins University and Director of both the Pleural Disease Service and the Interventional Pulmonary Fellowship Program. Throughout my career, I have focused on advancing interventional pulmonology through leadership in clinical program development, fellowship training, and national educational initiatives.

My work is guided by a commitment to building high-performing teams and elevating training standards. I have helped shape national policy and curricula through roles with organizations like CHEST, ACGME, AIPPD, ABIM, and the NRMP. As former president of the AIPPD and Chair of the CHEST Education Committee, I lead efforts to innovate and standardize education across our specialty.

Our field is poised on the edge of extraordinary possibility. The decisions we make now will not only guide our progress but set the foundation for the next generation of interventional pulmonology. This moment calls us to think boldly, act with conviction, and move forward together. I am energized by the opportunity to join with our members in charting an ambitious and inspiring future for IP.
